Synopsis

In 1897, Sergei Rachmaninoff's First Symphony was met with devastating criticism, plunging him into a deep depression that silenced his music. The first movement emerges from this darkness—raw with anger, doubt, and inner collapse.

In search of light, he turned to Dr. Nikolai Dahl. Through patience and care, Rachmaninoff slowly found his way back, and the second movement reflects this fragile healing, where sorrow begins to soften into hope.

By the third movement, he rises—transformed. What begins as struggle becomes triumph, as he reclaims both his voice and identity. From this rebirth came the Piano Concerto No. 2, a work of profound beauty and gratitude, marking his return to the world as one of its most deeply expressive composers.

Generously underwritten by Victoria and Sam Phares.
